

Salt Skills

We're at the end of the first year of the Saltscap Landscape Partnership. And what a year it's been. ....

We've held over 30 training courses and events from geology walks and talks, with Cheshire RIGS and local historians to hedgelaying, coppicing, green wood working and canoe-building. Working with ReCORD and Cheshire Wildlife Trust we have trained volunteers in how to record reptiles, voles and other endangered wildlife

Protecting the Salt Landscape

Middlewich Town Council has a carved sandstone monument celebrating the crucial role of the waterways in creating the Salt which will gradually take shape over the life of the partnership. In Winsford Friends of Weaver Parkway produced history boards to help people learn more about the town's story

Canal and Rivers Trust completed work on the towpath at the Blue Bridge, linking access between the salt towns of Northwich and Winsford. Friends of Marshall's Arm worked with contractors to complete access work. Cheshire Wildlife Trust carried out habitat restoration work at Cliff Meadows near Frodsham

Celebrating Salt History

Heritage Open Day in Middlewich and Northwich saw an army of dedicated local volunteers supporting Saltscap partners to bring history alive. This day also saw the unveiling of the newly restored River Control Buildings at Anderton Boat Lift, another success for the partnership. Then we explored the archives with Cheshire Records Office and Winsford residents, past and present.

Planning for the future

Exciting plans for industrial archaeology, digital media, conservation of waterway buildings and structures, creation of reedbed habitats and another round of education projects where local schools will learn more about the salt industry and its impact upon their environment. This year too will see the inception of Animate! - a one year programme of performance events with local people, delivered by Manchester Metropolitan University, that celebrates the salt landscape via the rich and diverse nature of performing arts.

New Project Manager Rachael Maskill is now in post with Saul Burton, Project Officer, Hannah Petrie, Press and Communications Officer and Sarah Perry Community Engagement Assistant.
